THE STORY

AN ACTOR WHO CHOSE MAGIC

Fabien Solaz performed his first trick at the age of eight. More than twenty years on stage later, he is just as at home a few inches from ten guests as in front of an entire festival.

With a degree in Performing Arts and training in the Jacques Lecoq method, he approaches magic the way an actor approaches a role: with the body, with rhythm and with humour. Every trick becomes a small scene rather than a puzzle.

Invited to The Magic Circle in London, he spent two years in street magic and the comedy clubs of the British capital. He also performed season after season at Club Med and at the Villa d'Este, the Paris cabaret where Charles Aznavour and Jeff Panacloc also started out.

Now based in Avignon, he has performed from New York to Singapore, on cruise ships, in casinos and on the main stage of Hellfest. With The Freaky Circus, his new creation, he blends illusion, cabaret and club energy.

CAREER

FROM HIS FIRST TRICKS TO STAGES AROUND THE WORLD

AGE 8	His first tricks. Magic was a calling long before it became a profession.
TRAINING	Theatre, film, photography, comics and fine arts at university, leading to a degree in Performing Arts. The Jacques Lecoq method turned physical acting into a language for his magic.
LONDON	Invited to The Magic Circle. Two years of street magic and comedy clubs in the British capital.
CLUB MED AND PARIS	Several seasons at Club Med, then the Villa d'Este cabaret. His career also took him to the Cirque Gruss and to Bobino, with a romantic act.
THE WORLD	On board cruise ships, alongside international artists, he created his own grand illusion shows. His tours have taken him from Miami to Singapore.
TODAY	Based in Avignon, he performs across France and abroad, and has launched The Freaky Circus, at the crossroads of artistic freakshow, cabaret and clubbing.
